

Notes on Contributors

Kenneth A. Adams is the author of A Manual of Style for Contract Drafting (5th ed. 2023), published by the American Bar Association. He gives Drafting Clearer Contracts training internationally and is chief content officer of LegalSifter, Inc. For more information, go to www.adamsdrafting.com.

Patrick Barry is a clinical assistant professor and the director of digital academic initiatives at the University of Michigan Law School, as well as a visiting lecturer at the University of Chicago Law School and the UCLA School of Law. He has launched three sets of online series on the educational platform Coursera and published ten books, including Good with Words: Writing and Editing, Good with Words: Speaking and Presenting, and Feedback Loops: How to Give and Receive High-Quality Feedback. He also writes a column for the Illinois Bar Journal and has authored articles that have appeared in Stanford Law Review Online, Georgetown Law Review Online, the Journal of Legal Education, Perspectives, and Legal Communication & Rhetoric: JALWD. His newest project is a course called “Digital Lawyering: Advocacy in the Age of AI.”

Erwin Chemerinsky is the Dean and Jesse H. Choper Distinguished Professor of Law at the University of California, Berkeley School of Law.

Ruthanne Deutsch and Hyland Hunt are cofounders of Deutsch Hunt PLLC, a Supreme Court and appellate litigation boutique based in Washington, D.C.

Fred Frost serves as executive counsel with ExxonMobil Corporation, where he has been a member of the law department for more than 27 years. He graduated with high honors from both Vanderbilt University School of Law (J.D. 1984) and Huntingdon College (B.A. in finance/history 1981).

Steve Leben is the Douglas R. Stripp Missouri Distinguished Professor of Law at the University of Missouri–Kansas City School of Law. He was a judge on the Kansas Court of Appeals from 2007 to 2020 and a Kansas state trial judge for 14 years before that. He was the editor of Court Review, a quarterly journal for U.S. and Canadian judges, from 1998 to 2017.

Ian Lewenstein works for the state of Minnesota, specializing in legal drafting and administrative rulemaking. He has worked for the Minnesota Legislature and several state agencies, helping to write regulations in plain language. Lewenstein serves on the board of the Center for Plain Language and contributes to various publications, including the Michigan Bar Journal's Plain Language column and Bench & Bar of Minnesota.

Mike Madden is a Ph.D. candidate at the University of Ottawa's Faculty of Law. His research is focused on identifying and using ways to measure the quantitative readability of Canadian court and administrative tribunal decisions.

Lance McMillian is an associate professor at Atlanta's John Marshall Law School. He holds a B.A. from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill (1995) and a J.D. from the University of Georgia (1998). He is the author of five novels: The Murder of Sara Barton (2020); Death to the Chief (2021); To Kill a Lawyer (2021); A Hard Way to Die (2022); and The Just and the Unjust (2023).

Karin Mika is a senior professor of legal writing at Cleveland State University College of Law and has been a member of the legal-writing department since 1988. In addition to teaching legal writing, Professor Mika teaches legal drafting and scholarly writing and coaches student teams participating in moot-court competitions.

Brian C. Potts is an assistant professor of law at St. Thomas University's Benjamin L. Crump College of Law. He served as the career judicial law clerk to the Honorable Daniel A. Manion of the Seventh Circuit. Before that, he clerked for the Honorable Joseph S. Van Bokkelen of the Northern District of Indiana.

Jennifer Murphy Romig is a professor of practice at Emory University School of Law. In addition to coediting the second edition of The Indigo Book, she coauthored (with Mark Edwin Burge) the textbook Legal Literacy and Communication Skills: Working with Law and Lawyers (Carolina Academic Press 2020). Professor Romig teaches legal writing, professional responsibility, appellate advocacy, and blogging and social media for lawyers.

Suzanne Rowe is the James L. and Ilene R. Hershner Professor at the University of Oregon School of Law. For comments on her article, Professor Rowe is grateful to Cindy Archer, Katrina Robinson, Hadley Van Vactor Kroll, Carolyn Williams, Ted Becker, Liz Frost, Sarah Einowski, and Madeline Hailer. She also gratefully acknowledges the support of the Association of Legal Writing Directors for its Scholars Workshop held at the University of Oregon School of Law in October 2022, where she presented the article as a work in progress.